Coronation of Pope

Thousands Press Into St. Peter's

Ancient Ceremonies Held in Rome Today

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Thousands lined up in a heavy downpour early today to get into St. Peter's Basilica for the coronation of Pope John XXIII.

Turnout Small

Cuban Voting Peaceful

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban voters, guarded by government troops, turned out in smaller than normal numbers Monday to elect a new president. As expected, President Fulgencio Batista's candidate rolled up a strong early lead in the counting Monday night.

First scattered returns gave former Prime Minister Andres Rivero Agüero a 4 to 1 margin over his closest opponent. The rebels of Fidel Castro had called for a vote boycott and threatened violence to voters and death to candidates.

Army and police headquarters announced, however, the election was one of the most peaceful in Cuba's history and the voting went off without incident.

Prime Minister Gonzalo Quel in a statement to reporters said the election was conducted in accordance with the "highest principles of democracy and in strict compliance with the constitution and laws."

U.S. 'Off-Year' Vote Today

Lacklustre Campaign Ends at Polls

WASHINGTON (CP) — An estimated 48,000,000 Americans vote today in a lacklustre congressional election that finds the opposition Democrats an odds-on bet to come out on top.

The ballots will close a wishy-washy, month-long campaign that failed to develop a single national issue and left the voters concentrating on local problems and local personalities.

More than 76,000,000 are eligible to vote but only about 48,000,000 — at that, a good turnout for a non-presidential year — are expected to exercise their franchise.

Good weather was forecast for most areas, but a surprise snowstorm hit western New York Monday.

The voting will determine which party — Democratic or Republican — will control Congress for the next two years. The Democrats held the edge in the last Congress and every pre-election poll and survey points to strengthened Democratic majorities both in the 435-member House of Representatives and the 96-seat Senate.

U.S. Sets New Try At Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will fire its third moon rocket this weekend in an effort to reach the vicinity of earth's natural satellite. If "very fortunate," it will send back a picture of the moon's never-seen far side.

Perhaps more important, voting sentiment may indicate how the political winds are blowing for the 1960 presidential campaign.

In addition to electing one-third of the Senate and the entire House of Representatives, voters in 32 states will choose new governors. A number of states will elect new legislatures and many cities and towns will make use of the election machinery to run off local contests.

Casualties Believed High

Red Guns Awake On U.S. Vote Eve

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Chinese Red guns blasted the Quemoy's with nearly 40,000 shells yesterday in the biggest artillery assault against the Nationalist offshore islands in eight weeks. Nationalist sources charged the bombardment was deliberately timed to influence the U.S. elections.

Shelling continued until midnight, Quemoy time.

It was feared casualties may have been high in the bombardment, which for brief periods was possibly the most intensive since the Reds began their shelling offensive against the Quemoy's Aug. 23.

Many of Quemoy's 45,000 civilians, re-assured by a recent ease-up in the Red attacks, were caught at work in the fields and on the roads.

Funeral Processions Go On

Death Toll Now 57

By HARRY CALNEK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Only 17 bodies remained unclaimed in Cumberland No. 2 mine early today as miners continued their harrowing search through deeps.

Five bodies brought to the surface Monday night and early today raised the total known dead to 57. Of the 174 men trapped by the giant upheaval in the world's deepest colliery Oct. 23, 100 were rescued. No hope was held for the still-missing miners.

As the grim job of recovering bodies continued Monday, more of Springhill's dead were buried to the mournful tolling of church bells.

Rescue workers and mine officials said there was no hope now that more men would be found alive. Ahead was only the grim task of locating bodies and bringing them to the surface. Fifty-two bodies have been recovered.

LOAD OF COFFINS
As the miners walked toward the pit under leaden skies, a truck loaded with coffins rumbled past.

Six funerals were held Monday. Seven were to be held today.

Draughtmen from Stellarton and Cape Breton left for their homes when gas was cleared from the mine. Only the bare-faced crews remain.

RESCUERS SLOWED
Rescue work was concentrated on the working areas of the 13,000 and 13,400-foot levels. Mine officials reported work progressed swiftly Sunday night, but slowed again Monday as debris continued to sift into the tunnel almost as fast as the men dug it out.

The teams are still struggling most of the way on their bellies.

Most still refuse to talk about the underground work. Many say they cannot sleep at night. Others say they are sick to their stomachs.

The town's churches were filled Sunday as people thanked God for two miracles and prayed for another.

Last Wednesday 12 men given up for dead were brought alive from the mine. Then hope ebbed again.

REEVE NORRIS
... nice long rest

Reeve Norris To Step Down

Reeve Fred Norris, who has guided the development of Oak Bay municipality for the last five years, announced last night that he would resign in mid-term at the end of this year.

He said he had made the decision because of "pressure of business."

"I intended to do it last year, but I was persuaded otherwise," he said.

TO REST HERE
"I have certainly enjoyed serving the community," he said. "I'm going to take a nice long rest, right here in Victoria."

Mr. Norris, former president of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, was elected reeve by acclamation in December, 1953, and was subsequently re-elected in 1955 and 1957. Prior to that, he had been a member of the council for eight years.

A byelection for the reeve-ship will be held Dec. 11, coinciding with the general election in which three council seats will be at stake.

11 DAYS' NOTICE
Any councillor who wants to compete for the seat will have to give notice 21 days before the byelection nomination date, which probably would be Dec. 6, said Reeve Norris.

Shortly after Reeve Norris announced his resignation, Coun. Patrick Birley announced that he was being nominated for reeveship and will run in the December byelection.

UN Unanimous

Disarmament Vote Ends Stalemate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a rare display of unanimity, the United Nations voted Monday night to set up an 81-nation disarmament commission for 1959.

The move to end the long-standing stalemate on UN disarmament negotiations came in the 81-nation political committee, where the United States and the Soviet Union reached agreement on operating rules for the enlarged commission.

The committee endorsed by a vote of 78 to 0 an Indian-Yugoslav resolution, worked out in consultation with representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, and the Soviet Union.

There were two abstentions. The resolution provides that the 81-nation commission be established for 1959 on a special basis so that the entire UN membership can contribute to progress on world disarmament.

Quarrel Precedes A-Parley

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and Britain yesterday rejected Russia's call for an immediate and permanent ban on nuclear tests. The three powers then went into another quarrel over procedural matters at the second session of their nuclear talks here.

In effect, both sides wrangled over what they should argue about first.

Onion Peelers Pay $400 Fine For Being Thoroughly Offensive

TORONTO (UPI) — Magistrate C. A. Thoburn yesterday fined a wholesale fruit and vegetable firm, which has a contract to peel five to six tons of onions a day, $400 for carrying on an offensive business.

William D. Branson, owner of the firm, pleaded not guilty to the charge of failing to obey an order of the medical officer of health to desist from an offensive business—peeling onions.

William Smith and Mrs.

Constance McDonald, employed near the firm, testified they had to leave their offices at times because the odor of onions was so strong.

Branson said the company was doing what it could to alleviate the odor, but so far had been unsuccessful.

Could End Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — The final chapter may be written today in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial, a tense and politically-potent court drama that has gone on for 77 days.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson told the jury Monday he expects to complete his charge today, not only on 12 charges of bribery against men and companies alleged to have bribed former Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers, but on seven counts against the 47-year-old one-time cabinet member as a recipient of the bribes.

By the judge's own timetable, the jury of nine men and three women could be given the bribery phase of the case late tomorrow.

JUDGE TIRING
The 60-year-old judge, looking and admitting to tiredness after a day of addressing the jury, reviewed the evidence against and for the various accused. He made one major point: that the verdicts the jury delivered Saturday in the conspiracy phase of the case would have no bearing on their decisions in the bribery charges.

Conspiracy, he said, involved "the whole plot." Bribery only related to a particular act or acts which must be each separately proved by the crown.

RECALLS CONVICTION
The jurist referred to the jury's action when in a tense three minutes in court Saturday evening he pronounced Sommers guilty of conspiracy, along with 46-year-old H. Wilson Gray, the man through whom he is said to have collected the bribes for his favor in the issuance of forest management licences.

At the same time the jury convicted Gray's two firms, Pacific Coast Services Limited and Evergreen Lumber Sales. But even after more than 50 hours' deliberation it couldn't agree on the guilt or innocence of 54-year-old timber engineer Charles D. Schultz and his firm of the same name or that of John M. Gray, 48-year-old brother of Wilson and a Pacific official.

BIG FIRM ACQUITTED
And it pronounced the big timber firm of B.C. Forest Products Limited, controlled by the E. P. Taylor interests of Toronto, not guilty of conspiracy. The Crown had claimed this firm paid $30,000 for a timber licence, a charge denied by B.C. Forest officials who said the money was a legitimate payment to Wilson Gray for services rendered by him.

By his conviction Sommers, who resigned from the cabinet in 1956, lost the Rossland-Trail legislative seat he has held since 1952 for the Social Credit party. Under the law a writ for a byelection must be issued within six months. (See stories on Page 2.)

WEEKEND IN JAIL
And both he and Wilson Gray, who with the other accused have been at liberty since Canada's longest trial began last May 1, were taken into police custody. They spent the weekend in the city jail which will be their home until the end of the case and the passing of sentence.

Both appeared in court Monday. Gray looked red-eyed and wan. His brow was in a perpetual wrinkle as he stared from the prisoner's box at the jury and the judge. Sommers appeared calm.

An appeal is being considered in the case of Sommers. In the case of Gray there has been no decision about a possible re-hearing in a higher court.

Sommers Trial

The judge had originally planned to charge the jury on the 12 bribery counts against alleged donors, ask the jury for a verdict and then put his charge on the seven counts against Sommers. But he said Sommers' counsel had objected to that procedure.

57 VERDICTS
To clean up the case and win its discharge the jury will have to produce a total of 57 verdicts. Fifty will be required in the case of the alleged donors of bribes. In these, H. W. Gray faces 10 bribery counts; the Pacific firm Schultz and his company nine each; B.C. Forest Products six, John Gray four and the Evergreen firm three.

The Crown's 20-count indictment charges that more than $16,000 in bribe money is involved and that thousands of dollars went to Sommers. The former minister admitted receipt of some $7,100, including rags for his Victoria home, but said they were legitimate loans from his friend Wilson Gray which were covered by notes and repaid. He denied receipt of money on which there was no documentary evidence.

ACCOMPLICE VIEW
In his day-long address to the jury the judge necessarily covered much of the legal ground previously covered in his four-day charge to the jury on conspiracy. He directed them again about reasonable doubt and about the danger of convicting on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice. And he said the Crown's chief witness, former Pacific bookkeeper

Charles Eversfield, was an accomplice, though the jury did not have to accept his view on this.

The judge referred to his earlier acquittal of Sommers for lack of sufficient evidence, on five charges of accepting bribes. But he said this had no bearing on the guilt or innocence of persons still charged as donors of bribes in those instances.

DANIELS' ROLE

In the case of B.C. Forest the judge said the firm apparently would not be implicated at all except for the evidence of its one-time chief financial officer, Trevor Daniels. It was Daniels who testified that Hector Munro, late president of B.C. Forest, told him the firm was to pay $30,000 for a licence.

The jury, the judge said, must look carefully at Daniels' testimony and decide if he was lying in a spirit of revenge because—as the company claimed—he was fired. He reminded them too that Daniels' story had been denied by company officials.

WAS SCHULTZ AWARE?
Dealing with C. D. Schultz, the judge said there was no evidence that Schultz directly bribed Sommers. The evidence was that the money went through Gray and it was a question of whether Schultz was aware of the alleged purpose of the payments he made to Gray. Schultz himself said they were legitimate.

He recalled defence cross-examination suggesting some payments were for "campaign funds." But the mere fact the money was to be used for that purpose was no defence. Campaign funds were not sacred if they paid for a corrupt purpose.

WEAKEST LINK

Regarding J. M. Gray, Mr. Justice Wilson said he thought the weakest point in the Crown's case was the question of whether J. M. Gray knew the money he signed through the Evergreen account were for corrupt purposes. Eversfield said J. M. Gray knew, but Eversfield's testimony against this accused was weaker than the general run of his evidence and there was no corroboration for it.

Europe Summit Sought

LONDON (AP)—Britain is reported weighing an idea for a little summit conference of European allies.

Prime Minister Macmillan is taking the lead to halt deepening political rivalries inside and balance and to stave off a threatened trade war in Europe.

Informal diplomats said he is quietly sounding out the prospects of a round-table meeting with French Premier de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Gen. de Gaulle's dynamic bid to restore French power and influence in the world has ruffled Chancellor Adenauer, who dislikes a secret de Gaulle plan to assure France a seat in an American-British-French trinity which would direct political strategy on a world scale.

Biggest Opal Ever Found

In New York, Elliot Glasser, 27, examines a section of the largest opal ever found. It is one of three giant chunks which were previously a single 125-pound stone. The opal, worth about $175,000, was found recently in Australia by Aborigines exploring an abandoned mine.

Canada's Defence 'Caught in Squeeze'

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada is caught in a squeeze between American isolationist thinking and her own defence requirements, says Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of the Canadian general staff.

"But it would be ridiculous for anyone to suggest that we not co-operate with the U.S. when they are charged with the task of leading the West in the face of the Communist challenge," he told the Canadian Club Monday.

"But going along with unrealistic and unsound military ideas just doesn't make sense."

Gen. Simonds said a defence policy based on a "fortress of North America concept" is wrong and urged a "searching re-examination" of all points of this country's defence policy.

The former army chief said the idea of isolationism still lurked in the back of the minds of a great many Americans after the Second World War.

When the Americans failed to persuade their NATO partners they ought to do everything as seen by American eyes, State Secretary Dulles made his famous statement about an "agonizing reappraisal."

'Fortress' Unsound — Simonds

"This implied that the rest of the world may need the U.S., but the U.S. did not need the rest of the world."

The idea was developed to build a "fortress of North America" harboring bases of the U.S. Strategic Air Command. These bases, from which the massive retaliatory action would be launched, would be protected by radar detection lines and interceptor fighter aircraft.

"With the growing dominance of the offensive in air power over the defensive, the position of continental security could never be maintained in the modern world," said Gen. Simonds.

Radar lines and interceptor fighter aircraft.

The Andes Mountains, extending from Panama to Cape Horn, have an average height of 13,000 feet.

Cuba Plane Hijacking Denounced

HAVANA (UPI)—The U.S. state department yesterday denounced the hijacking of a Cuban airliner which crashed Saturday night off the north coast of rebel-harried Oriente Province.

Seventeen persons, including seven Americans, were killed. Three others, including one American, survived.

The United States is trying to determine whether representatives of Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro were responsible for the tragedy.

The airliner was seized by four rebel gunmen and the pilot ordered to land at Preston, which has no night landing facilities. It crashed in the sea while attempting to find the runway.

A representative of Castro in Washington denied that the rebel movement had any hand in the crash.

Columbia Development

Hydro Report Coming

British Columbia's own survey of the economical stage-by-stage plan for power development of the Columbia River will be ready within six weeks, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said yesterday. He said the Crippen Wright report has taken two years to prepare and will analyze the power development of the Columbia from the standpoint of advantage to British Columbia.

Another engineering report on the Columbia River hydro question is being prepared by the International Joint Commission and is expected to be ready in March.

Downstream benefits are the main issues and the U.S. and Canadian governments are striving for a decision through the International Joint Commission. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton is chairman of the Canadian side.

The B.C. government takes the stand that in exchange for downstream benefits, the U.S. should pay for all dams built on the Canadian side of the Columbia and also return 20 per cent of the additional power generated on the U.S. side.

Premier Bennett said last week that the Columbia will be developed by the B.C. Power Commission or a special authority set up to develop it. He said that the proposed Wenner-Gren hydro project has strengthened B.C.'s bargaining position on the Columbia.

Too Fast for Safety

AT its convention in Vancouver last week the B.C. Social Credit League allied itself with a campaign to have the provincial highway speed limit raised from 50 to 60 miles an hour. Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce is pressing for the same thing, and various other organizations have put themselves on record as favoring what they describe as a more realistic speed limit taking into account the capabilities of modern cars and the standards of the newer and better highways in this province.

The movement towards an upward revision of the speed laws thus would appear to be gaining strength. But from the fact that a movement gains supporters it does not necessarily follow that what is proposed would be good for the province. Those now being heard from are largely people irked by having to hold fast cars down to what they regard as a slow speed; but very little is heard from the other side. A proper poll of the population might produce results surprising to those who are trying to persuade the government that "the public" wants a higher speed limit.

Attorney-General Bonner, the chief law enforcement officer, for one is against it; and that opinion should carry a great deal of weight.

It is backed by the views of senior officials of the motor vehicles office who only last week, in disclosing the latest accident statistics, dubbed B.C.'s "slow down and live" campaign a failure, and blamed speeding for that. The people whose job it is to find the causes of the highway death and injury rates are virtually unanimous in their conclusion that to raise the limit would be a mistake.

The chief argument employed by those advocating a change is that a great many motorists habitually drive at 60 miles an hour anyway. It is a new concept of law that because some people transgress the law should be changed to accommodate them. Moreover it is a foregone conclusion that motorists who drive at 10 miles faster than the 50-mile limit would add another 10 miles an hour to a 60-mile limit. The net result would be to make the highways more dangerous than ever.

A further important factor is that a speed limit has to be universal, and many motorists feel themselves entitled to travel at that speed if they wish, whether or not they or their cars are capable of it with reasonable safety. Possibly 50 per cent of the cars in this province, and the same proportion of drivers, would be a positive menace on the roads at speeds beyond 50 miles an hour.

From One Man Who Knows

CANADIAN soldiers get a pat on the back from Field Marshal Montgomery in his Memoirs, which went on sale yesterday. As may be judged from the racy manner of the extracts which have been printed recently this is one war book likely to be in large demand. The flavor of the legendary Monty appears on every page, direct and to the point with a frankness not too usual among commanders who write about their campaigns.

Speaking of the Canadian division which earned its initial spurs in the Sicily campaign he says the men were "magnificent." Until that stage the Canadian troops of this formation had not been in action before, but "they were very well trained and they learned the tricks of the battlefield which count for so much and save so many lives. When I drew them into the reserve to prepare for the invasion of the Italian mainland, they had become one of the Eighth Army's veteran divisions."

That was fine praise from a commander who, one judges, was not given to idle or facile comment. It is true that general officers do not speak ill of the men they command; if they do not come up to scratch the custom is simply not to mention them. When singled out for special commendation, and particularly by a commander of Montgomery's high standard, it means that they really did perform in first-rate style.

It was always expected that the Canadian troops of the last war would enhance the reputation of their forebears of the previous war. This nation takes such military quality for granted. Other Canadian divisions were later to serve Montgomery with equal distinction on the Northwest European front. Sicily was the first test under his eagle eye, however, and it is pleasing to have merit attested to by an authority who cannot be gainsaid. Whatever troubles Montgomery may have had on higher strategy levels he had none on the ground level; there, as he says, the troops were magnificent.

United States Election

SOME 48,000,000 registered voters in the United States will decide today the balance of power they wish to obtain in the legislative wing of their government. The chief tussle is over party standing in Congress, where President Eisenhower and the Republicans have been hard put to it to maintain their program in the face of stiff and formidable Democratic oppositions. The presidential post is not at stake in this election, but the result might well cast its shadow forward to the next presidential election.

Pre-election assertions were rife yesterday from both parties, but it is the voters who will decide the issue today. Under the American system of government, the administrative and legislative wings are separate, and the judiciary plays an important role affecting both. It has been President Eisenhower's fortune to buck a hostile Senate and House of Representatives since his election. Predictions that a swing towards the Democrats may increase these difficulties in both Houses were being freely made, and particularly so far as the lower House is concerned. At present there are Democratic majorities in both Senate and lower House. The Republican campaign was aimed at reversing this position.

As seen from Canada, both parties appear to follow much the same course in external policy, subject to their own root differences as to domestic tariffs and internal affairs. A stronger Democratic Congress might now of itself make much difference in external affairs. It would, however, render more difficult the task of the Republicans in securing legislative support for their program, and make the closing period of President Eisenhower's term more of a stalemate in legislative action than it has been up to the present. Conversely, a Republican victory would ease that difficulty by bringing administrative and legislative wings into closer alignment.

Triumvirate Is Suggested

By DAVE MCINTOSH

Canadian Press Staff Writer

GEN. de Gaulle wants to bring France back into the West's inner circle with Britain and the United States.

For more than a decade, as French governments came and went, de Gaulle sat in retreat in his modest house of Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises and read of repeated advice, sometimes rude, from France's Allies.

The advice amounted to warnings that France must achieve political stability before it could consider itself a major Western power. The U.S. even intimated it would pull its defence forces out of France if France didn't smarten up.

Then came the Suez upset of 1956 in which Britain and France parted from the U.S. Britain and the U.S. later made up, but France remained, comparatively speaking, an outcast.

It was in such an atmosphere that de Gaulle was recalled to power last summer, a de Gaulle who had always believed in national and international glory for France.

He proceeded to put France's house in order in series of swift, dazzling and extremely clever moves.

Now he wants France's house to be one of the three most prominent on the Western Street.

This is his broad aim; and he is not especially concerned with how he achieves it, as long as he does not alienate Britain and the U.S.

This is the background of de Gaulle's suggestion to Britain and the U.S. that the three countries form a big-three directorate or triumvirate within the North Atlantic alliance.

The small and middle powers in NATO, including Canada, naturally have objected to this plan and de Gaulle may withdraw it and try another tack. Or Britain and the U.S. might make a counter-proposal which would satisfy de Gaulle.

Canada has always held that consultation among all NATO members should precede any action by one of them which would be likely to affect the others.

... of shoes and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

ALEC GUINNESS is said to be a man with a thousand faces, or rather a man whose single face can take on a thousand personalities. That is somewhat of an exaggeration, of course, but a tribute to his versatility. He has a special flair for depicting characters of widely differing variety and often enough without benefit of exterior camouflage. It is perhaps no great trick for an actor to play a part so disguised no one can recognize him; it is vastly more difficult to project a role clean-shaven and yet impress an audience not with himself but with the character he portrays.

Ralph Richardson is the only other film personality I know of who when unadorned is able to make his watchers forget he is Ralph Richardson. By contrast for example such performers as Spencer Tracy, Clark Gable, even Raymond Massey, are always Tracy, Gable and Massey unless they are so handsomely hidden by their make-up their wives wouldn't know them. Even then they are apt to be betrayed by their mannerisms. Every actor cannot be a past master in this respect, naturally, and they are not necessarily to be condemned for lack of a genius that is denied them.

In books the hero, and especially the villain, is easily possessed of the capacity to change his face as readily as he might his tie. Authors can do wonders with their creations. One such who comes to mind as akin to Guinness in his infinite variety is the Moxon Ivery of "Mr. Standfast" who is really the Graf von Schwabing. He could dissolve his features, as it were, and reassemble them in other guise, together with the required bodily shifts, to suit any malign purpose and his were usually malign. But then we have only the author's word for his virtuosity.

Alec Guinness has to exhibit his magic in front of our eyes and without pretence except that he is in fact pretending while demonstrating his art. And it is art of high degree. A pleasant circumstance of his chameleon-like propensity however is that he says he doesn't know how he effects the changes. He just does them. This is comforting for those of us of lesser stature who do not always know how we do things. Actually few people can ever explain their capacities.

Great men of art particularly fall within this category. Caruso when asked how he sang so gloriously said only that he opened his mouth wide and let go. Many a famous author must turn astonished in his grave as he notes how critics and analysts dissect his works and discover therein things he never dreamed of while penning them. Critics if they play fair nevertheless perform a useful role and perhaps it is merely dispensation of talent that they should be able to explain the whys and wherefores of genius when the owner of it cannot.

The genius, after all, need only be not exactly himself perhaps if he is Alec Guinness and thereby a multiple person, on the screen at least. But he does not have to harass himself wondering from whence comes his alchemy; he has only to step out and show it off. What a relief that must be.

Reports from Ottawa

PRIME Minister Diefenbaker's vision of the north pouring forth its riches over Diefenbaker-built roads has had some of the corners knocked off it by hard-headed engineers and geologists.

But enough of it remains to constitute an impressive expansion and speedup of the northern roads program which the previous administration had planned. Basically, the Diefenbaker concept is to provide roads and railroads into the sub-Arctic to enable private enterprise to develop mineral and forest resources.

That was the Liberals' policy too, but with this difference: the Liberals' idea was to build roads when there was proven need for them. Diefenbaker had the vision and the courage to green-light road programs before need was proved, on the basis of confidence that the roads would generate their own need.

With this chicken-or-egg decision from the PM, Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton proceeded to map out the roads network which he announced last winter. A summer's field work has resulted in plan changes, priority ratings and some real construction progress.

Top priority has been given to a road from Dawson City to Eagle Plain, an area described as a "frozen desert" high in the Yukon. The reason is oil. Geological reports point to the likelihood of a great reservoir of oil under the permafrost. The potential of this potential field (no oil has actually been struck yet) is estimated in the billions of barrels. Some of those familiar with the reports talk, perhaps extravagantly, of the Eagle Plain-Peel Plateau area being another Middle East—and the Middle East's reserves of 152,000,000 barrels constitute two-thirds of the world's proven reserves.

Excluding the enormous volume of economically inaccessible oil in the Alberta tar sands, Canada's known reserves are only 3,400,000,000 barrels.

The road to Eagle Plain will be an offshoot of the new 400-mile Dawson City-Fort McPherson road on which much detailed surveying was done this past summer, with clearing of the first 45-mile section north from Dawson to start soon.

Last winter's planning called for continuation of the road past McPherson to the Arctic coast. Since taking a close look at the Richardson Mountains barring the way, Ottawa officials have become pessimistic. As one put it, "It's just as if the glaciers had left yesterday." So they have downgraded this section of the road to practically zero in the priorities listing.

However, this priority downgrading could be reversed quickly in the event of a major oil strike, for the obvious way to market Yukon oil is by pipeline to tidewater—and the shortest distance to tidewater is on to the Arctic coast.

High priority also has been allocated to the road around the western shore of Great Slave Lake to Yellowknife. More than half this road has been built, and the project is scheduled for completion in 1960. The government's intention is to carry this road ultimately to Great Bear Lake to encourage and facilitate mineral exploitation there. But it likely won't go to Port Radium, where the uranium deposits are pining out.

High priority has been given to construction of three bridges at a million each on the existing Whitehorse-Dawson road, to replace ferries unserviceable three months out of 12.

Reconstruction of a disused wartime road from the Alaska Highway to Ross River has been abandoned because of disappointing geological reports on originally exciting mineral occurrences in the Ross River area.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

AN ELDERLY policeman among my social acquaintances is convinced that fallout from atomic test explosions is the explanation of all these narrow-shouldered, bushy-haired, consumptive-looking young "under twentys," as he calls them, to distinguish them from teenagers.

"You'll see dozens of them," he says, "in the course of an evening down town, around the cheap movies. In their leather jackets and sideburns, with their shoulders deliberately hunched up so as to look as unmanly as possible, they're a phenomenon. In all my years on the beat in some of the roughest sections of the city, I never before saw a generation of rowdies that deliberately tried to look unmanly, unmasculine. Yet they're not sissy, these beat generation. They're just unmasculine. I believe it is the indication of the effect of fallout. They've begun to wither."

So it being his day off, I took my old constabulary chum for a brief run in my car, stopping at two or three high schools and one public park. And we got out and stood on the sidelines while the rugby crews tried out and practised. "Withered?" I asked. The lads chasing the ball were all nearly as large and lumpy as my old friend himself, and him full of Irish blood and Canadian high constabulary feeding for sixty years.

Today's Election

By DAVID LAWRENCE

TODAY'S election of a new Congress is the most important in a half-century. On the outcome depends whether America, after a brief period of boom, will gradually head into a depression.

Confidence—the basic influence in business expansion and especially in the building of new plants—may be, temporarily at least, shattered when the election result is finally tabulated, if it turns out that a Democratic landslide in the north has taken place. Will there be a scramble to build plants quickly under present prices, for fear that runaway costs will follow in the next year or so as inflation picks up more and more momentum? Or will business adopt a "wait and see" attitude?

If the even-up battle between the Republican Party and the Democratic Party in the north in recent years shows this time a sharp decline of Republican strength and the rise to supremacy of the radical faction of the Democratic Party, many businessmen will wonder what the long-range trend is going to be—higher and higher wages with higher and higher prices and then a crash as a buyers' strike ensues?

For the 13 years since the Second World War the businessmen of the country have had faith in the effectiveness of the coalition of conservative Democrats of the south with the conservative Republicans from the north in preventing unsound legislation. In both parties in Congress the conservative representation will be diminished—if the advance surveys are borne out.

As the voters go to the polls this time to elect Democratic candidates for Congress, they have been told very little about the conservatives versus radicals problem and what it means to them as individuals in the future. Millions of voters with fixed pensions—in states like California—are apparently not aware of the dangers to them in the coming decline of the dollar's purchasing power when the radicals take command. Certainly very little has been told the voter about how the new bosses of the Democratic Party in the north—the leaders of the labor unions who have put up most of the money for the Democrats in the present campaign—can be expected to dictate to the newly elected Democrats the course of economic legislation.

Businessmen who know the facts of life in politics are worried. They see a Congress dominated by labor-union influences. If, even after the revelations about racketeering in unions, the electorate still votes against the "right to work" principle and in favor of labor-union monopolies, there will be added discouragement throughout the business community.

This election may prove to be a milestone in the history of American politics. The die may be cast for more and more socialization of the economy.

A healthy economy would, of course, absorb the unemployed by creating more and more jobs. But a labor union controlled economy, with prices fixed by the unions themselves at levels that the buyer must ultimately resist, is not going to bring more employment. It will mean less employment and also less profits for the corporations out of which the government can collect tax revenues.

One of the first things the radical Democrats may propose is higher corporation tax rates and increased levies on the middle and upper-income groups. Something like this will be urged as the way to overcome the big treasury deficits. Certainly if profits in business go down and tax revenues from corporations decrease, there will be only one way to increase treasury receipts—by higher individual income taxes. Even the lower-income groups may not escape some upward hike of taxes.

It all comes back to a sound economy. The real issue in the current campaign is between a sound conservatism and an irresponsible radicalism. Many Republicans called "modern" have been flirting with the radical side for the last three years, and some have become disillusioned. This is natural because the radical Republican has found scant support among the Democratic voters and hence little net gain for his so-called "modern republicanism." In fact, the defeat of many republicans in Congress this time will be largely due to the stay-at-home attitude of millions of conservative Republicans who have been antagonized by some of the "modernist" tendencies of the administration in the past.

It is not too soon for the Republican Party to begin to mobilize and harmonize all its factions for the big battle of 1960. For the 1958 election results will show the effects of the internal struggle between conservatism and radicalism inside the Republican Party. Sometimes a defeat provides the alibi for a subsequent victory.

Letters to the Editor

Too Much Debt

After the Saanich council spent about $40,000 on the addition to the municipal building at Royal Oak, people thought the amalgamation question was settled for some time at least, but there are still some people who would like to keep up with the Joneses by amalgamating with Victoria even though it would mean higher taxes.

I read the article on amalgamation in the Colonist and have come to the conclusion that the only people who want it in Saanich are those that have good incomes and can afford to pay higher taxes for city services; and the people who want it in Victoria are those who would like to have the Saanich taxpayer share the city's debt burden, which according to reports is too much for the city officials to cope with. This seems to be true or they wouldn't be so anxious to amalgamate with the municipalities.

Personally, I think Saanich has enough liabilities at ready without taking on any more. Furthermore, most of the $10,000 spent on a municipal building would be a total loss if the proposed amalgamation became a reality.

One World Order

How could any church of God, and much less the whole Council of Churches, whoever they may represent, advocate that "Canada should be ready to limit her national sovereignty . . . to permit growth of a world order," to be fostered, presumably, by the so-called United Nations?

There is only one world order to which we should surrender sovereignty; it is the Kingdom of God. The Council of Churches should instead be leading in this direction.

Are They Overpaid?

I have always noted with interest the views of Mr. Frank Partridge on labor matters. He never misses an opportunity to use your columns to charge that labor is overpaid and that so-called high wages have caused us to lose markets.

I would like to know if he thinks that the miners of Springhill, who receive about $14 per day and work short time, are overpaid.

Damaging Report

The school board of District 64 on Oct. 28, 1958, released a report in the Colonist which contended that all parents of Salt Spring Island are "up in arms" over alleged smoking by school children. We are not aware from this report if the same pertains on Saturna or other islands' schools.

I, as a parent taxpayer and resident of Salt Spring Island, wish to convey to the general public that inasmuch as there may be some smoking this report has done much harm. I feel that the school board has gone on record producing a very unfavorable impression to the public of the district of the school. I quote from the report, "a consistent vice, etc."; from such wording many people may ask just why is this applicable to smoking? Also what other aspects in this regard may pertain?

The curtailment of smoking should be adhered to, but let it be done with some respect to all those concerned. All too often the public is being throttled by edicts from groups with puritanical hypocritical tendencies; a situation which is dangerous to a democratic way of life and cannot be too greatly deplored.

World Search Set For Bank Teller

OTTAWA (UPI) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police yesterday prepared wanted circulars for world-wide distribution as local police expressed the belief suspected bank robber Boyne Johnston had slipped Canada.

As the trail of the 25-year-old bank teller petered out in Montreal over the weekend, police theorized he might have headed for the United States, possibly Florida.

The amount of money stolen from the Imperial Bank of Canada's main branch in Montreal more than a week ago was established at $260,000. The bank has offered a $10,000 reward for the capture of the "boy wonder" of local banking circles.

Some $6,000 in cash was found in Johnston's modest Ottawa apartment by police after the slightly-built teller failed to show up for work Oct. 27 and a check showed a large sum of money missing. Johnston had gone to Montreal by plane the day before.

It will be the first time that Maurice Ruddick, his wife and 12 children, have had to live apart from white people.

His companions, trapped for days with him when No. 2 colliery was shaken by an underground upheaval, said they would accept the government's segregation plan.

—"I'll go along according to the rules and regulations," Ruddick, the singing miner, said in an interview.

"There is pressure in that part of the world and I wouldn't want to cause any international incident."

Governor Marvin Griffin invited the miners to enjoy a holiday at the state's Jeckyll Island Park.

Advised yesterday that one of those saved is Maurice Ruddick, a Negro with 12 children, Griffin said he would be welcome—but on a segregated basis.

"We have facilities available at Jeckyll Island for colored people," he told reporters. The Negro-accommodation at the island off Georgia's Atlantic coast consists of several cottages.

Most miners agreed that Ruddick's decision would be theirs.

Herbert Pepperline, who survived with Ruddick in a small rock-enclosed chamber, said "If he's good enough to work with us, he's good enough to go on holidays."

"If he can't go, we won't go."

'I'm Happy I Wrote It'

HAMBURG — Nobel Prize winner Boris Pasternak, in a newspaper interview published here yesterday, said he was happy he wrote "Doctor Zhivago," the novel that brought the wrath of the Kremlin on his head.

He said he was sorry about "the noise" it stirred up, "but I am happy I wrote this work. I simply had to write it."

NEW YORK — The Times described the appointment of Richard B. Wigglesworth as U.S. ambassador to Canada as "a final draught of bitterness for Sherman Adams."

The former assistant to the president, who resigned in the face of political pressure, has always been fond of Canadians. The Times reported, and once said he would "love to have the ambassadorship to Canada."

NEW YORK — Harry Revel, 52, composer of "Paper Moon" and "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" and other popular songs of the 1930s, died in his home yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

HALIFAX — Premier Manning of Alberta said Sunday the world's current troubles are to be blamed on the "progressive deterioration of human nature with each succeeding generation."

During a Maritime preaching mission, he said the solution to mankind's problems does not lie in human hands but in "Divine Intervention."

WASHINGTON — Joseph Lipski, 64, the Polish ambassador to Germany, who received Hitler's surrender ultimatum in 1939, died of a heart attack Saturday.

MONTREAL — Senator Sarto Fournier, mayor of Montreal, has been thrown out of the Quebec Liberal Federation.

Coast Shipyard Union Seeks New Pay Talks

Some 2,600 Victoria and Vancouver shipyard workers have voted against acceptance of a conciliation officer's recommendations for pay increases and will attempt to re-open negotiations with shipyards, a union spokesman said last night.

Conciliation officer Reginald Clements had recommended a two-per-cent wage increase every eight months for the next two years.

The union spokesman said in Vancouver that "the workers voted to reject this report because they feel that the shipyards are in a very healthy financial position."

"According to a financial report of Burrard's enterprises," the spokesman said, the profits of their company have increased from $90,000 in 1950 to over $1,000,000 in 1957, after taxes and depreciation.

Figures were not available but the spokesman said "the vast majority of shipyard unions representing shipyard workers in Vancouver and Victoria voted by secret ballot overwhelmingly to reject the report of the conciliation officer," he said.

Two shipyards here, and one in Vancouver, are affected. It is understood that the unions want a 12½-per-cent increase, and may seek a government-supervised strike vote.

Milkmen Reconsider

Employees of four Victoria dairies will meet Friday to reconsider acceptance of a $25 pay increase offer which they already had rejected, a union spokesman said last night.

CNR Demolition Blast Kills Two Workmen

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP)—A planned explosion of unexpected severity killed two Canadian National Railway employees here Monday, shook the west end of the city and caused thousands of dollars damage.

Killed were John Ross, 56, a bridge and building worker of Campbellton, and John Lamey, 41, of New Glasgow, N.S. Each is survived by a wife and seven children.

The accident occurred during demolition of an old cooling station and coal plant in the CNR shunting yard.

The two victims, 50-feet apart, were standing about 1,000 feet from the blast. Other employees evaded the falling debris. Flying rock fragments struck Ross in the back and Lamey on the neck. An inquest will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Some 30 feet of the CNR main line, torn up in the blast, were quickly repaired.

Bucket, Mop Finale To This Soap Opera

Two Oak Bay boys were the unwilling stars of a "soap opera" over Halloween.

Opening scene found the lads, bars of soap in hand, having a go at some windows along Oak Bay Avenue Halloween night.

But then the "heavy" appeared—in this case Const. Ralph Studden. He caught the boys, one 14 and the other 12, in the act.

The constable, who caught the boys separately, took their names and addresses and invited them to return to the scene of their crimes the next morning with bucket and mop in hand.

Last act found the contrite culprits—much to the surprise of pleased merchants—erasing the evidence of their guilt.

Accountant Wins Stock Shots Prize

Ernest Le Gresley, 589 Hampshire, an Oak Bay resident who is celebrating his 50th anniversary as an accountant, won the $50 prize in The Daily Colonist Stock Shots competition for October.

The three stocks he selected gave him an imaginary gain of $53.93 on a $100 investment in each stock.

He chose as his industrial stock Ogilvie Flour, which rose during the month from $33 1/2 to $45 1/2 for a capital gain of $12.00.

His mining choice, was Sherritt Gordon, which advanced from $3.95 to $4.45 for a capital gain of $1.00.

His oil selection, Britalta, went up from $2.55 to $2.69 for a gain of $0.14.

The three judges, Harry Mearns, H. J. Kennedy and L. B. Williams, three local investment dealers, found Mr. Gresley's to be the best of over 1,500 entries.

Actually the highest possible score would have been this trio, Ogilvie Flour up $35.82; Nipissing, up $26.16 and Canadian Oil Lands, up $20, but no one had this combination, or even two of the top stocks in each section.

Ogilvie Flour with its big gain of $35.82, was the linch pin of the contest. Only three people picked it as their industrial, but the other two did not do so well as Mr. Le Gresley in their other choices.

Mr. Le Gresley learned of his luck yesterday after he had returned from the office of accountants Gibbs and Jermoloff, where he works every forenoon.

"It's the first competition I have ever won in my life," he said as Colonist publisher Seth Halton handed him the $50 cheque.

ERNEST LE GRESLEY
... picked linch pin

To celebrate, he is taking his wife and another couple out to dinner.

Later Mr. Le Gresley was asked by Harry Young, Colonist business editor, how he came to pick Ogilvie Flour to lay the foundation of his victory.

"I had no inside information that during the month someone was going to make a $12-over-the-market price offer for Ogilvie shares," he commented.

"I selected them because they are one of the old-established conservative firms who have put away a lot of money and have a very sound equity position," he said.

"Sooner or later this type of firm becomes in line for a big offer of this sort."

"I have chosen different stocks, however, for the November competition," added Mr. Le Gresley.

British Hockey Wobbly

By BILL NEVILLE
LONDON (UPI)—The British Hockey League, which has provided many a Canadian with an English experience over the past 12 years, is on shaky skates.

Several of the Canadian players say it is the lack of teams in the league which is the main reason for its wobbly position. A few said it might not last this season.

After watching a game at Wembley last night, the Canadian players said the league is in a precarious position. The league is in a precarious position.

mounting at least one of these. A major blow to the league was the withdrawal of the Hamilton Racers. The club's general was recently sent a notice which helped boost attendance at Wembley but which hurt the overall league.

have been able to meet this requirement and have been forced to play with less than a full squad. The Canadian players frankly admit that to them the main value of the league is in providing free transportation for a seven month holiday here. Their approach to the game is something less than serious.

Garden Notes

Rose Anti-Social Critter

By M. V. CHESNUT, F.H.S.

When June is traditionally the month of roses, the time to give a gift of the new rose has become a long-planted rose bushes get away is quite a satisfactory way. It seems to me that they are so popular to the old strain which we have them, so many new ones. And it is a top knotch. And glorious beauty of all the new ones.

appears! Good thing that, too, for the reason that grass, located directly adjacent to the road, can and will be planted, as it is well known, the product of good soil. At a concept, created by the owner of every garden, there is the established road.

A good soil, too, is a must for the flower. And these flowers, good, with a particular grace and grace, are found in the garden of the garden, the last year, but without plants of the garden.

South's three no trump opening bid is a classic example exactly 26 point, counting one for 150 cents. North's four club response was a Stayman-like K up for a lift in a minor, which turned out to be the salvation of the game.

After the club opening against his own second suit, Spade contract demands that South's no trump contract of his using the more than one trick in diamonds as every other suit was sold. It was the cash lost due three diamonds crushed his high cards in clubs and hearts, and thus led a small diamond hand has lost. This would permit the suit to be made if either opponent had bid the outstanding high diamonds.

It will be seen that East, after winning the trick has lead back a diamond, which South will let ride to the board.

Any other result will furnish a ruff-stuff enabling South to discard a losing diamond from the one hand while trumping in the other.

Industry's Proposals Won't End Strife

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (IUMSWA) has rejected the proposals of the Vancouver Shipbuilding Industry Association (VSIA) for a new collective agreement. The union's president, Walter Woodhouse, said the proposals were "a patchwork of concessions" and did not meet the union's demands for a 10 per cent wage increase and a 40-hour week.

A Craving for Bread

Family 'Survives' On Disaster Ration

OTTAWA (CP)—Bread is ready for use quickly at any time, without spoiling. But no bread.

Eating utensils suggested are a can opener, paper cups, spoons, knives and paper plates. Two gallons of water for an adult and three for a child are recommended.

The Smythes expanded on this, taking a "sizeable cooking utensil" with which to heat "survival" soup or "disaster stew." They recommended that the suggested civil defence evacuation pack in future include such a utensil.

The CD evacuation pack is intended to provide a minimum daily average of 2,000 calories per person, Mr. Smythe said. His family's health remained excellent, despite main meals such as beans, canned corned beef hash, wieners and more beans.

"Not only was there no loss of weight—except for one pound by the father, which he could very well afford to lose—but the mother and some of the children made gains," he reported.

Least useful in the recommended pack—for the Smythes, at least—were the dry cereals. These were used mostly for snacks.
And instead of the suggested peanut butter, the Smythes took jam. "Even in the face of disaster," he said, his family felt it would maintain its dislike of peanut butter.

Forced Reopening Of Schools Hinted

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Governor Orval E. Faubus said Monday he has "pretty reliable" information that the eighth U.S. circuit court of appeals plans to "attempt to force reopening of the public schools on an integrated basis."

Faubus closed Little Rock's four high schools in September after the courts ordered them to proceed with integrating Negro students.

A three-judge federal court at St. Louis now has under advisement a request for a permanent injunction against leasing public school facilities here to a private corporation, which wanted to use the schools for private, integrated institutions.

The private corporation now is carrying on some segregated classes in other buildings. Asked if he felt it would be possible for the court to force reopening of the schools, Faubus said:

"They could declare unconstitutional the act under which I closed the schools and then direct the Little Rock school board to reopen them."

Legality of the school closing law, recently passed in a special session of the Arkansas legislature, was upheld by a state court. It has not been challenged in federal court.

Tell Children You're Wrong —Chisholm

VANCOUVER (CP)—Children should be taught that their parents are not always good and right, says Dr. Brock Chisholm.

The former head of the World Health Organization told a political meeting here Sunday such thinking must be cultivated in children to help them keep peace in the world.

He said children should learn that their parents are sometimes bad and wrong and he urged a "new independence of mind" among youngsters to help them think for themselves.

A child should be told that what he learned in church, home and school depends on what side of the mountain, ocean, or railway tracks he is on.

"He should learn that if he were born elsewhere, these teachings might not be considered true," Dr. Chisholm said.

"We cannot afford to see the world as the accident of birth... teaches us to see it through the distortions taught by society."

$56,000 in London Theft

Housewife Suspect In Daring Bank Raid

LONDON (Reuters)—A 22-year-old housewife was charged Sunday with stealing £20,000 ($56,000) worth of cash and jewelry from a 10-inch thick steel safe in a London bank Friday.

The raid, one of the most daring ever committed in London, was carried out only 300 yards from a police station by thieves using equipment of a type practically unknown in Britain.

They cut through a six-inch bullion room door, a steel grille and a safe with 10-inch-thick steel walls while police patrols passed the bank several times during the night.

Police estimate the raiders worked six hours.

Sunday police swooped down on a suburban London apartment, recovered about £9,000 ($25,000) of the loot and arrested housewife Mrs. Ada Shakeshaft.

The search is also on for "a man with a native dancing girl tattooed on his left arm" and possibly four other expert safecrackers who, police believe, were needed to carry oxyacetylene equipment into the bank's basement for the job.

Bank Threatened With Grenades

NEW YORK (UPI)—A businesslike holdup artist threatened to blow up a teller with three hand grenades Monday while carrying out a daring $5,000 bank robbery near the corner of Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street. He then dashed to the street and vanished in a crowd of pedestrians.

Threatening to turn "the Chemical Corn Exchange Bank into a 'battleground,'" the bandit completed his bold holdup in scarcely more than 60 seconds with such finesse that a guard standing 10 feet away noticed nothing suspicious.

The bandit then hurried into 42nd Street just a few steps from one of the world's busiest intersections.

Clifford A. Schell, YMCA National Council executive secretary, said amalgamation of the YMCA and YWCA in Victoria would be of "great sociological value."

Mr. Schell, meeting with YM and YW officials to discuss possible joining on the two organizations, said there are 17 YMCA-YWCAs in Canada.

Mr. Schell said that definitely "no decision" would be made during the present conference.

Bonner Denies Election, Won't Quit

ATTORNEY-GENERAL
ROBERT BONNER
... couple years away

The federal government will not go to the people over the Sommers case, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

He said a general election is "a couple of years away." Asked if he intends to heed demands for his resignation the attorney-general said:

"No, I have no intention of resigning."

Commenting on reports that conviction of Robert Sommers means he (Sommers) automatically loses his Rossland-Trail seat, Mr. Bonner said "It is an obscure point of law I am having looked into by legal advisers. A final opinion has not been reached."

"It is still and always has been sub-judice," Mr. Bonner said yesterday. "The last person in the province who can comment on proceedings during and prior to a trial is the attorney-general."

"I have never been in a position to discuss delays or otherwise, because to do so would have meant disclosing of presence or absence of evidence and would have been an indication from time to time of guilt or innocence of the people involved."

He lashed out at an editorial in a Vancouver newspaper yesterday, which he termed libelous. The editorial policy of that paper is almost a scandal, he said. He said the federal government would not be dictated to by "newspaper barons."

He said there would be no general provincial election for two years because "we are in the middle of a program a program generally popular, regionally important and one that does not deserve to be delayed."

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston would not comment on any plans the government might have to review forest management licences is sued by Sommers when he was lands and forests minister.

Premier Bennett has left for a vacation and was unavailable for comment.

Meanwhile, a prominent Conservative yesterday came out flatly and predicted Premier Bennett will call a general election next summer.

James A. A. George said provincial leader Deane Finlayson has told all Conservative associations to be ready for a June election.

Mr. George said he will definitely seek the Oak Bay Conservative nomination.

Determined Pursuit

Police Hunting Driver Who Ran

Police are still looking for a fleet-footed driver who escaped a determined pursuer Sunday evening after his car knocked down an elderly woman on Cook near Suttell.

In fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital is Mrs. Elizabeth Traill, 81, of 1021 Pembroke. She suffered a broken leg and multiple other injuries when she was hit while walking across Cook at 5:45 p.m.

The hit-run car, witnesses told police, stopped after the collision and the driver got out to look at the woman. But he then got back into his car and sped away.

Police said another motorist, Harry Morris, 1211 Chapman, gave chase and forced the hit-run car to the curb on Moss near Richardson.

When the fleeing driver leaped out and ran between two nearby houses, Morris also left his car and continued the pursuit, but lost the man in the darkness.

Sought by police is a Hungarian, in whose name the car is registered.

A city police ambulance was in a collision yesterday morning while taking the victim of an earlier accident to hospital.

The ambulance received only slight damage in the 7:55 a.m. accident and continued on to

St. Joseph's Hospital with

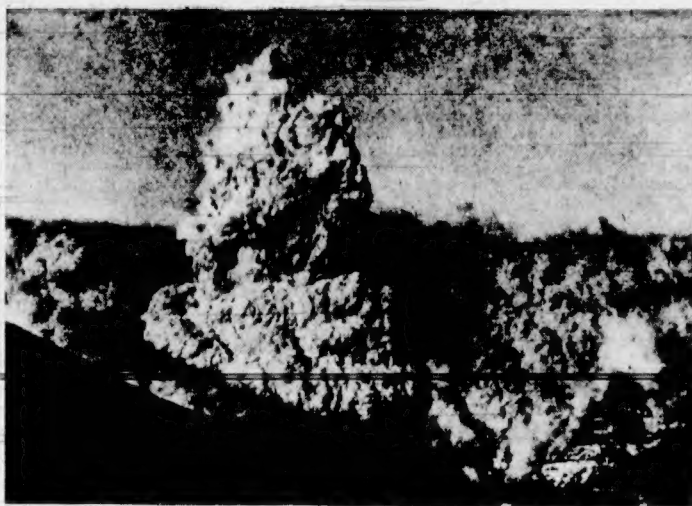

Donald Hoshal, 18.

Hoshal suffered a broken leg 10 minutes earlier at Hillside and Hamilton, when his motorcycle was in collision with a car driven by Curtin P. Ward, 3915 Ernest.

Hoshal's father is Const. Harry Hoshal, who regularly drives the police ambulance.

The driver in yesterday's collision at Cook and Yates was Const. George Buckle.

The other car was driven by Alan Langille, 2470 Cadboro Bay Road, police said.

Underground Blast Big as Hiroshima

A thick column of dust rises over the atomic test site in Nevada where a nuclear bomb as large as the one that destroyed Hiroshima was set off underground. A couple of miles away the blast was felt as a mild earth tremor. The atomic device was set off 1,400 feet below the top of a hill that rose 3,500 feet above the desert floor, and most if not all of the radioactivity was confined by the surrounding rock and dirt.

Building Dangerous Law Bars Repairs

A permit needed to allow repairs to save a Saanich building from being condemned can't be issued because of building bylaws, Saanich's chief inspector of services, D. W. R. Smith, said last night.

The building, at 4987 Cordova Bay Road, is unsafe at present and a permit to allow repairs can't be issued as the construction of the building contravenes bylaws governing the siting of buildings on lots.

"It does not comply with setbacks from boundaries," he explained.

Reeve George Chatterton observed that council had the power to amend the provisions of the bylaws.

"You are in a building, now, where that has been done," Coun. Ainslie Worthington told Mr. Smith. He was referring to the converted army hut used by Saanich as a council chamber.

Council decided to view the property and obtain legal advice on the matter.

Trading Scheme

European Market May Hurt Canada

LONDON (UPI)—The European common market, when implemented, may produce serious adverse consequences for Canada, diplomatic sources said yesterday.

The plan, intended to create a larger world market, is in danger of becoming a protectionist unit, the sources said.

Canada is involved in some $500,000,000 worth of annual business with the area. The effect of a protectionist trend by the European nations obviously would be harmful to the Canadian economy.

Trade experts based their fears on the present attitudes of the nations involved, particularly France. They stress

Mark Centenary Schools Urged

L. J. Wallace, B.C. centennial committee chairman, last month announced that special ceremonies would be held in B.C. schools to commemorate Sir James Douglas and the birth of the province.

The 100th anniversary programs were to include special department of education radio broadcasts, music by school bands and choirs and an address by Governor-General.

Cut Speed, Council Asks

Attorney-General Robert

Bonner will be asked by Saanich council to lower the speed limit on the Trans-Canada Highway from Burnside Road to the Saanich boundary from 50 to 40 miles an hour.

Council last night granted the police commission a $6,000 increase in its budget, because an involved fraudulent cheque investigation and other work had exhausted the original $139,000.

Tax Rebate Forgery Trial

Accused Identified As Chased Driver

A Vancouver man charged with cashing and making forged income tax rebate cheques was identified in Assize Court yesterday as the driver of a car that later figured in a 100-mile-an-hour chase in the city last July.

"The accused was the driver of the car," said Lynn C. Thow, bank clerk, who was testifying at the trial of William Black of Vancouver.

Black is accused of cashing a forged cheque for $263.15 in Saanich July 24 and also faces four other charges of making the forgeries, having forged cheques in his possession and also having in his possession forged B.C. driver's licences.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY

He pleaded not guilty to all of the offences which are alleged to have taken place in Victoria, Saanich and Vancouver.

There are about 50 Crown witnesses to be heard in the case which is expected to take all this week at least.

Lloyd McKenzie and Frank Donegani are appearing for the Crown while the defence is being handled by James Proudfoot.

CASHED AT BANK

In summing up the prosecution's case, Mr. McKenzie said a forged income tax rebate cheque was presented and cashed at a city bank shortly after opening time July 24 and in the next few hours similar cheques were presented at practically all the banks in the Victoria area.

The cheques were made out to a "Robert Marshall" with the address on Brighton Street in Victoria. He said there was no such person as Robert Marshall and the address did not exist.

That afternoon at a bank in Saanich another cheque was presented and when the man was asked for identification he went out towards a car and started to run. The car was chased at speeds up to 100 miles an hour and was eventually lost.

CHEQUE PRESENTED

Miss Margaret Hanely, 3381 Savannah, said she was working as a teller in the Bank of Montreal's Saanich branch on Quadra the afternoon of July 24 when a man came to her wicket and presented a rebate cheque for $263.15.

She referred him to the manager who asked for more identification and the man went out towards a car saying he would get it. As soon as he got outside he began to run and was chased by bank staff.

Bank manager Melville C. Genge, 1529 Monterey, said he jumped into his own car and chased a light colored car at speeds of up to 95 to 97 miles an hour before losing the car on Douglas at Burnside.

NO DOUBT

"There is no doubt that this is not the man who presented the cheque?" asked Mr. Proud-foot, pointing to the accused, chased the man who presented the cheque.

"No, sir," replied the witness. He said he had a very good works at a bank in Vernon, look at the driver, whom he told the court that he was identified as the accused, and working in the Saanich bank said he also wrote down the on the afternoon and had licence number of the car.

Sweden Alarmed By Red Radiation

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The Swedish ministry of defence research institute in an unprecedented communique said Russian atomic tests last month sent the radiation count in Sweden "five times above the highest ever recorded." It warned that winter rains might dangerously increase radiation.

This May Be View Street of Future

This could be attractive view of View—developed as pedestrian mall down to Broad—from roof of first city-owned off-street parking building if Victoria decides to go ahead with parking program recommended by city engineer's department. This four-storey building would be across View, mid-block between Douglas and Blanshard. Pedestrian exits would be to Blanshard, Yates and Fort and down this mall to Douglas and Broad. Cars would enter and leave building by Blanshard and View. Drawing is by assistant city engineer, architect Roderick Clack.

Glimpse Into Future

The city engineer's department took an intriguing look into the future in preparing the off-street parking plan presented yesterday.

"While the fundamental object of this report is to present an overall parking plan and to detail its first phases, we found it necessary to broaden its scope to include a peep into the traffic future and not merely to suggest the creation of parking facilities, but the recreation of downtown Victoria as a delightful shopping centre with parking facilities," the report said.

"As a result of the 'peep into the future,' the report was accompanied by appendices containing proposals which, if adopted in years to come, would make some drastic changes in Victoria's traffic system and even its map.

J. C. GARNET

The appendices recommended:

That a basic plan for a one-way grid be adopted as a basis for future planning.

That Wharf Street be developed as a truck route and linked to James Bay by a road built on fill below the Causeway and curving around to merge with Belleville just west of the CPR wharf.

That a fill link Store Street with Rock Bay Avenue, and

Meter Fee Boost To Raise $875,000

By R. O. MARRION

A momentous plan to provide city-owned off-street parking facilities and to revitalize Victoria's downtown shopping area was laid before aldermen and businessmen yesterday. (See pages 8, 13.)

First phase would be construction of a 350-car parking building across View between Douglas and Blanshard, in mid-block. Estimated gross cost, with associated pedestrian malls and arcades, would be $875,000.

This phase, a report from the city engineer's department suggested, would be financed by raising parking meter fees to 10 cents an hour, and borrowing against the anticipated increase in revenue.

FROM THEN ON

From then on, profits from the parking facilities would be set aside for the later developments.

The first development, which City Engineer James C. Garnett said could be completed in a year if a quick start were made, would be a four-storey, ramp-type garage entered from View off Blanshard.

A mall and arcade would provide one exit to Fort, and another arcade would lead to Yates. View west of the building, down to Broad, would be developed as an attractive pedestrian mall, interrupted only by the signal-controlled crossing at Douglas. Made, would be a four-

LATER DEVELOPMENT

Later developments as recommended in the report, would be:

A 200-car facility on the east side of Government, midway between Johnson and Yates, to be carried out as soon as the View Street garage was running smoothly.

Reconstruction of Eaton's parking building on Broughton to hold 300 cars.

A 110-car parking lot on the site of the present headquarters firehall.

Final Charge

Jury Stays Out

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sommers trial jury deliberated for some hours behind a locked hotel-room door Tuesday night but there was no indication they were near returning the final verdicts in the long and complex case.

No decisions by the nine-man, three-woman panel was expected until today when they will return to the locked jury room of the courthouse across the street.

FINAL CHARGE

The jury late Tuesday heard Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson direct in his final charge that the bribery case against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers "must stand on its own feet."

He said evidence on which they convicted him of conspiracy Saturday was not evidence against him in the seven counts of bribery he now faces.

18 COUNTS

The jury is deliberating on 12 counts dealing with alleged donors of bribes and on seven counts against the 47-year-old former minister as an alleged receiver.

The judge completed his charge on the Sommers bribery counts in little more than half-an-hour and sent the jury out at 2:40 p.m. At 4:25 p.m. the jurors went to their hotel where a third-floor block of rooms has been their guarded home since they were taken "in charge" last Thursday.

Last Saturday evening after more than 30 hours of deliberation, this same jury of nine men and three women found Sommers guilty of conspiracy along with timber executive H. W. Gray, the man who is alleged to have passed him bribes in return for favor in the granting of government timber licences.

FIRMS CONVICTED

The jury also convicted Gray's firms, Pacific Coast Services Limited and Evergreen Lumber Sales, but could not agree on the conspiracy guilt or innocence of 54-year-old timber engineer Charles D. Schultz and his firm of the same name, or on the guilt or innocence of John Gray, a Pacific official and brother of Wilson.

At the same time the jury returned a not guilty verdict on the conspiracy count against British Columbia Forest Products Limited.

Bucked the Tide

Rare Republican victory of Nelson A. Rockefeller yesterday over Democratic Governor Averell Harriman, in "battle of the millionaires" for the New York governorship, brought speculation he would be considered for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Thinks of Home

Pope John Weeps

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII wept Tuesday night, a few hours after his coronation at an audience he granted 15,000 north Italians.

They were hometown folk—from Venice, where he was patriarch archbishop, and from Bergamo Province, where he was born.

Pope John spoke of his thoughts as the papal crown was placed on his head.

Tears came as he said: "I heard many persons speaking Tuesday morning, and you may well understand my feelings when these voices said: 'You will not see Venice again,' and 'Do you not want to see your hamlet any more?'"

"What do you want? Could I say no to the will of God expressed through the cardinals? Could I say: No, I want to stay in Venice or Bergamo?"

John D. to Call On De Gaulle

PARIS (Reuters)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker will have his first meeting with Premier de Gaulle during his one-day visit here Wednesday to discuss French-Canadian relations and general world policy with him.

'I'm Looking For Daddy'

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Police and security officers told this story yesterday about a little boy found wandering aimlessly around Springhill mine property.

"What's the trouble, sonny?" a policeman said. "I'm looking for my daddy."

"Where is he?" the officer asked.

"He's in the mine and hasn't come up yet," the boy said.

The officer fought back tears: "Well, I think you better go home."

The boy appeared scared: "No, no, I don't want to go home. Everybody's crying there."

Stinging Rebuke For Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Democrats crushed the Republicans in Tuesday's congressional election in a political landslide that gave them undisputed control of the United States Congress for the next two years.

The Democratic victory assured the proportions of a rout for the Republicans and a stinging public rebuke for President Eisenhower, who campaigned for his party on the record of his administration. As he has for the last four years, Eisenhower faces a Congress dominated by the opposition Democrats.

Out of the debacle of the ballot boxes, the best the Republicans could salvage was a brilliant victory by Nelson Rockefeller, the millionaire turned politico, in a breathtaking struggle for the governorship of New York State. He crushed the second-term bid of Democratic Governor Averell Harriman.

KNOWLAND LOSSES

But, in gaining a new political star in the East, the Republicans lost another in the West. In California, Republican Senate Leader William F. Knowland lost to Democrat Edmund G. Brown in the race for the California governor's chair. Governor Goodwin J. Knight was defeated in his bid for the Senate by Rep. Clair Engle.

The defeat appeared to have killed Knowland's hopes for his party's presidential nomination in 1960.

NIXON RIVAL

Rockefeller now appears as a likely rival of Vice-President Richard M. Nixon for the 1960 candidacy.

As for Congress, Democrats quickly clinched control of the Senate. They swept on toward strengthened command of that chamber and also of the House of Representatives.

SEATS CHANGE

They took over Republican Senate seats in Indiana, Connecticut and West Virginia—both Republican incumbents in West Virginia were defeated—and built up leads in at least seven other states.

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington won re-election over Republican William B. Baniz.

The Democratic tide ran so strongly that all six Republican House members from Connecticut went down to defeat along with Senator William A. Purtell, who lost his seat to Democrat Thomas J. Dodd.

UNUSUAL FIRST

Eighteen formerly Republican seats shifted to the Democrats. Rock-ribbed Republican Vermont sent a Democrat to Congress for the first time in 106 years.

The Democrats affirmed all of their own predictions—and those of the pollsters—that they would regain and strengthen the congressional control they have held since 1954.

SENATE CONTROL

They ran roughshod over their Republican rivals in the battle for the Senate and quickly clinched control—49 seats—in that 96-member chamber, traditionally the more powerful of the two houses of Congress. They were running ahead of their opponents in 10 more.

The struggle for the 435-member House of Representatives was equally one-sided. They gained a dozen Republican seats, besides holding their own, with a speed that left no doubt they once again would hold the whip hand in the Lower House.

In the race for state governorships—33 were to be elected

Democrats—Won 16, including 4 now held by Republicans; leading for 8, including 4 now Republicans.

Holdovers—6 Republicans; 9 Democratic.

Right-to-work measures in four states yesterday received a mixed reception from voters.

Washington and Ohio handed a resounding defeat to the proposal to ban closed shops, but in Kansas the measure passed easily.

California, as the vote tabulation continued, appeared well on the way to defeating the measure.

Crime Expose Brings Threat

TORONTO (UPI)—Metro Chairman Fred Gardiner told council yesterday that threats have been made against his life for disclosing crime conditions in the Spadina-College area.

Gardiner said he received two phone calls from unidentified men. One threatened to shoot him and the other to cut his throat. Gardiner said he did not report the calls to the police and did not intend to ask for police protection.
